Readings

The primary reading for this section of the course is my 2018 book The Internet, Warts and All: Free Speech, Privacy and Truth, published by Cambridge University Press. If you can get hold of that, for example through university libraries, it contains detailed readings on each session. It can be found online here, but this may be expensive: <https://www.cambridge.org/core/books/internet-warts-and-all/7D947E0CFC8FBBE4A8DC769F6D498118#>

It can also be obtained from most online book suppliers, and can be found on Google Books – if you use Google books effectively you can find what you need from the book.

A much cheaper alternative is my 2020 book What do we know and what can we do about Internet Privacy, published by SAGE. You can find this here: <https://uk.sagepub.com/en-gb/eur/what-do-we-know-and-what-should-we-do-about-internet-privacy/book270342>

It can also be obtained from most online book suppliers.

Free readings (a mix of blog posts, videos and open-access journal articles) covering some of the subjects can be found as follows.
